

Hope for Our Planet: Judaism and Environmental Justice Amid Pandemic

At a time when many of us are practicing physical distancing, it is important to strengthen our spiritual connections with one another and to the planet we all share – and the COVID-19 pandemic serves as a forceful reminder of the power of nature and the importance of societal responses to crises. Many experts have written about the parallels between COVID-19 and climate change, including the disproportionate impact on vulnerable communities, the need for global cooperation, and the central role of science in dictating action.

Even as we stay at home, let us take some time to reflect on our environmental

In the past few months, we have witnessed a stark example of the importance of science and data in driving our pandemic response. Unfortunately, some of 110

Shares

