As economy reels, Amazon Bootcamp gives breadwinners
a chance to succeed

The global economy took an unprecedented hit since the outbreak of Covid-19, which placed life-as-we-know-it at a virtual standstill: Record unemployment. Businesses shut. Industries flailing.

As much of the population and brick-and-mortar establishments remain in full or partial lock-down, people are increasingly relying on having both their essentials and indulgences delivered by Amazon. Amazon sales are among the only industries that have not only not taken a hit, but have increased exponentially. And this trend is expected to remain for the long haul.

Whether you have lost your parnassah or are just starting out, do not despair. The Orthodox Jewish Chamber of Commerce is hosting a special two day Amazon bootcamp, where anyone can learn how to start and manage their own successful Amazon business, from A to Z. No previous e-commerce experience is necessary.

This is an opportunity like no other!

The 2 day bootcamp will be held on Monday and Tuesday, July 27 and 28, in the Catskills. (Exact location to be announced.) A full series of workshops will be delivered by Avi and Yosef Rosenthal of Rosy deals, preeminent E-Commerce entrepreneurs and consultants.

Over the past decade, Amazon entrepreneurs featured prominently at Orthodox Jewish Chamber of Commerce networking events. The Chamber hosted many Amazon related workshops, as well as a nearly identical bootcamp in Jerusalem in February. Countless successful Amazon entrepreneurs in our community have been produced as a result. The Orthodox Jewish community's success in the Amazon industry has made international headlines. It is estimated that Orthodox entrepreneurs in NY and NJ comprise 15% or more of Amazon's third party sellers.

Now is the time for you to join the fray!

Seminar is open to men and women. Slots are limited; RSVP promptly. As a service to the community, the Chamber is offering the course at a subsidized rate.
